

Reverend Father,

I am writing to you for your advice concerning a disturbing letter I received from my younger sister. Because of its contents I felt it was necessary to contact one of the priests at my campus church. He thought the best solution to this situation would be first to speak with my sister in order to fully understand the details. I have called her and explained what I intended to do. Father then felt the next thing to do would be to write to you and ask in what manner taken care of my family.

The letter itself is enclosed Please read it and tell me what you believe has to be done

My sister is thirteen years old and a freshman in high school.
She is a mature person who has clearly expressed her feelings about this problem. We very much appreciate your time and your support.

Sincerely,

My address is:
